

Figure 1: Volumetric post-contrast magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) in axial (A, B) and coronal (C) planes demonstrates left otomastoiditis (blue arrows) and intraluminal filling defect within the left transverse sinus (red arrows), consistent with venous thrombosis. Subtle contrast opacification along the thrombus margins suggests partial recanalisation.

